Creating the Future at Niedersachsen Ports

Versatile port locations from one single source: With branch offices in Brake, Cuxhaven (with satellite location Stade), Emden, Wilhelmshaven, and Norden, Niedersachsen Ports is managing the port infrastructure in Niedersachsen.

Oldenburg | May 4 through 6, 2021

A functioning port requires quay facilities, sea locks, plus road and rail connections. Therefore, an integral part of NPorts' services is dedicated to the development, construction, and maintenance of the infrastructure. In addition, the Seaports of Niedersachsen offer surface areas and real estate. In collaboration with customers, employees, and politics, the port company is promoting ideas and developments in the region – in a performance oriented, reliable and sustainable manner. It is our goal to secure the competitiveness of the ports and of the regional economy, far beyond the German coastal region.

As of this year, Mr. Dirk Leibfried is the new head of Sales & Marketing, and he is the go-to person, when it comes to infrastructure issues and for questions in regard to commercial and industrial settlements within the port. You can find his contact info and profiles (exposées) of any available commercial areas under <https://www.nports.de/en/business-opportunities/commercial-areas/>.

The ports are situated between water and land – therefore, NPorts feels obligated to secure the natural bases of life on a long-term basis. Under the label “hafen+”, NPorts is implementing sustainable projects that offer an added value to people, the environment, and to the economic performance. By now, we have introduced various smart-tech applications and LED technology to the NPorts sites. In many projects, we work in a site, state, and even country-transcending manner on digital innovations and eco-friendly scenarios for the future.

Just recently, NPorts published their second Sustainability Report, you can find it - together with information on current projects - on the Sustainability Portal under <https://www.nports.de/en/sustainability/hafen/>.

Niedersachsen Ports is owner and operator of five seaports, seven island supply ports, plus three regional ports along the German North Sea shore. The registered office of the company is in Oldenburg. Through the branch offices in Brake, Cuxhaven (with satellite location Stade), Emden and Wilhelmshaven, Niedersachsen Ports is managing the port infrastructure in the large seaports of the State of Niedersachsen. In addition, the Norden branch operates the supply ports for the East Frisian Islands. This way, Niedersachsen Ports is able to offer a multitude of port locations from one single source.
